WILSON TOOK OATH OF OFFICE AT 1:37 O'CLOCK

Cheering Multitudes Watched His Progress From White House to Capitol

WASHINGTON, March 4.—Woodrow Wilson became the twenty-eighth president of the United States at 1:37 o'clock today. It required just thirty seconds to take the oath and kiss the bible. Seventy thousand witnessed the scene.

The wind grew during the morning to a gale. Only persons within one hundred feet of the speaker heard the address. At 2:05 o'clock the new president entered a carriage and seated himself at former President Taft's right and began his triumphant procession to the White House. He received an ovation throughout the entire route, Wilson bowing and smiling, while Taft stolidly watched the crowds. They arrived at the White House at 2:38. Shortly after 3 o'clock President Wilson began the review of the inaugural parade. He appeared in a happy mood. At 3:20 former President Taft left the White House, making a detour to avoid crowds who cheered him as he went to the home of friends to join his wife.

Story of the Day
The capital remained awake practically the entire night, thousands of visitors taking their places along the line of March, and many carrying lunch hampers. Mounted soldiers guarded the line, but there was no disorder. The weather bureau issued hourly bulletins, but refused to state definitely whether or not it would rain. The day dawned overcast. By 10 o'clock every street leading to the capital was jammed and ten thousand people occupied the reviewing stand east of the capitol. Sightseers massed the streets about the Shoreham Hotel early, hoping to get a glimpse of President-elect Wilson or his family. At the White House President Taft and family sat down to breakfast, their last meal there. Then Mrs. Taft and Helen went to the home of friends. President Taft remaining to greet Wilson and Marshall. All the government employees enjoyed a holiday. All the stores were closed. The cafes and saloons were the only places of business open. They had a rushing trade.

At 9 o'clock the governors of fifteen states, with their staffs, mounted, clattered to the capitol for the parade. At 11 o'clock the members of the supreme court, clad in their official robes, appeared, and announced they were ready to march to the Senate and swear in Vice President Marshall and the new senators. At the Shoreham Hotel Wilson breakfasted alone. His family breakfasted later. His daughters played in the corridors with the child members of the party.

Following an 8 o'clock breakfast, Wilson, Bryan and McAdoo conferred. At 9:30 Wilson received 200 newspaper men, after which he received the congressional party sent to escort him and Marshall to the White House. The party arrived there at 9:49 and President Taft, President-elect Wilson, Chairman Lusk and Senator Crane left the White House in the same carriage for the capitol at 10:13. Vice President-elect Marshall followed in another carriage, all reaching the capitol at 10:54. It was 12:34 when Taft and Wilson entered the historic Senate chamber, where Thomas R. Marshall took the oath as Vice President at 12:38. He then called the new Senate to permanent order, and read President Taft's proclamation calling the Senate to extra session to swear in President-elect Wilson. After the new senators had been sworn in Marshall delivered his inaugural address. The Senate then moved to the east front of the capitol for Wilson's inaugural, Wilson taking the oath of office at 1:37 o'clock.

Wilson Cheered All the Way
As they left the White House Wilson and Taft passed between lines of cheering Princeton students. As they were leaving the grounds, a cavalryman's horse, frightened, plunged against their carriage. Neftner Taft nor Wilson moved a muscle while the danger was apparent. Wilson's progress to the capitol was deafeningly cheered. President Taft was also the recipient of hearty huzzas. The retiring President was in a jovial mood, nodding to many acquaintances, although apparently careful not to interfere with the Wilson limelight.

At the capitol while waiting to proceed to the Senate Taft signed scores of papers, completed the clearing out of his desk, snook hands with scores of friends and laughed and joked. Wilson stood in a corner of the room where he received his well wishes. He conversed quietly with the cabinet officers.

During the morning the House and Senate cloakrooms were full of "lame ducks," joking and bidding farewell. "Uncle Joe" cannon held a levee in one corner of a cloakroom. The march from the senate chamber to the east front of the capitol was led by the senate sergeants-at-arms. The supreme court justices followed, wearing their judicial robes over their overcoats. Wilson and Taft followed.

When Wm. J. Bryan appeared on the platform he was given a great ovation. He bowed right and left. All the prospective cabinet members except McReynolds sat on the platform. The motion picture operators got reams of films.

Fireworks Tonight
Instead of an inaugural ball to-night—the uniform climax of inaugurations since James Madison's in 1809, abandoned at President Wilson's own request—a street carnival of a half-million persons, with fireworks on the Washington Monument grounds awaited the holiday crowds. When the last of the marchers have passed the president's stand, and dusk approaches, the street illuminations will be turned on, transforming Pennsylvania avenue into a veritable fairyland. Thousands of incandescent lights, varicolored, have been strung in festoons from high poles the entire length of the historic thoroughfare, waiting the electric signal to open a mammoth Mardi Gras. The "Court of Honor" will blaze with incandescent splendor. Great electric searchlights are placed to bathe the Washington Monument in dazzling rays.

[President Wilson's inaugural address will be found on page 10, back of second section of the Register.—Editor's note.]

NEW VICE PRESIDENT ASSUMES HIS OFFICE

WASHINGTON, March 4.—For the first time in many months, the United States today possessed a Vice President. When Thomas R. Marshall of Indiana, took the oath today in the Senate chamber, the vacancy in that office caused by the death last year of former Vice President Sherman was filled.

As the "second in command," Vice President Marshall today shared the nation's plaudits only with President Wilson. Today he exchanged the title of governor for that of Vice President. Incidentally he became the presiding officer of the new Senate, filled lately by acting presidents pro tem.

After taking the oath of office, the Vice President said in part: "Senators!—The proprieties of this occasion probably require a few words from one who is grateful to the American people for the honor heretofore done him and this day consummated."

To my mind government is the harness with which a people draws its load of civilization. If the harness be properly adjusted the load, though heavy, will be drawn with ease and no part of the people will be galled. The Senate is the blinders, intended to keep the people from shying at imaginary dangers and toppling into the ditch our system of government.

So long as the blinders serve this purpose they are a most valuable part of the harness, but if they be drawn so closely to the eyes as to prevent the seeing of real dangers, they should either be spread or done away with entirely. I am one of those who think that we can so adjust our blinders as to meet new conditions and render us sanely responsive to every reasonable demand of the people without disturbing any of the checks and balances of our system of government and preserving with loyalty and fidelity the ancient ideals of the republic.

Here in this most sacred spot, where war has been made and peace declared, here in the presence of the distinguished representatives of the governments of the civilized world, here, within the hearing of the beauty, culture and ripened statecraft of his own land, may one humble American express the hope before he enters upon a four years' silence, that all our diplomacy may spell peace with all peoples, justice for all governments and righteousness the world around.

EL PASO, March 4.—To Norman M. JOSEPH ETOR IS AN UNDESIRABLE

So Says Canada, Which Ordered Him Deported From Within Her Borders

VANCOUVER, B. C., March 4.—By direct order of the Canadian government, Joseph Etor, the industrial leader who came into national prominence during the textile workers' strike at Lawrence, Mass., and in the murder trials which ensued, was deported yesterday as an undesirable. The order from Ottawa gave no reasons, except that Etor was regarded as an agitator, and as such was not wished in the country.

Etor crossed the boundary Sunday and was to have addressed a series of meetings of the Industrial Workers of the World here and elsewhere. Since his arrest at Salem he refused to desert the industrial workers, even though his family threatened to disown him.

CONGRESS IN CLOSING HOURS

Inaugural Delayed by Late Business After an All-Night Session

HOUSE ADJOURNED AT 12:05—SENATE AT 12:37

Important Bills Signed by Taft; Labor Department Created; Wilson Heads It

WASHINGTON, March 4.—One of President Taft's last official acts was the veto of the sundry civil appropriations bill because it contained provisions exempting the prosecution of labor organizations and farmers' associations under the anti-trust law. When the bill was returned to the house that body immediately passed the bill over his veto.

The President signed the bill creating the federal department of labor. Congressman Wilson of Pennsylvania immediately announced that he had accepted the position of secretary of labor in President-elect Wilson's cabinet.

FINAL ACTS OF SENATE: NEW SENATE AT 12:39
At its final session the senate passed the general deficiency bill which now becomes a law. After an all-night session it adjourned sine die at 12:37 today. The new senate was called to order at 12:39.

Senator Fall of New Mexico held the floor until 11:20 on a filibuster to prevent the passage of a bill for the removal of the Apache Indians to New Mexico. At 11:55 o'clock the clock was turned back thirty minutes. The entire inaugural program was delayed half an hour by the pressure of senate business. Vice President-elect Marshall reached the senate chamber at 12:30 o'clock although the clock pointed to almost twelve.

CLARK'S CRYPTIC REMARKS STARTLE CLOSING SESSION
"I violate no confidence when I say that within thirty minutes I might have been sworn in as president, but I preferred to stay with you even though I knew I would not be re-elected speaker."

This was the remarkable statement Champ Clark made just before declaring the house as adjourned sine die. The statement followed the brief tenancy of the chair by former Speaker Cannon, who received a resolution from Congressman Mann thanking Clark for his services as speaker. The statement caused a thrill in the house. Clark made no explanation of his cryptic remarks, immediately declaring the house adjourned.

Congressman Nicholas Longworth employed the closing hour of the house session singing his swan song, discussing the tariff and predicting Democratic failure in its revision. The senate refused to pass the sundry civil bill over the president's veto, thus the San Francisco exposition will be without the appropriation for the government exhibit, which the measure provided. The bill carried appropriations aggregating $115,000,000.

Among President Taft's last official acts were the signing of the postoffice appropriations, rivers and harbors and buildings and appropriations bills. He then reported through the congressional committee that he "had no further business with the congress or the nation."

The house adjourned at 12:05 o'clock.

LONG SESSION OF THE SIXTY-SECOND CONGRESS

The sixty-second congress when it closed today had been in almost continuous session since early in the summer of 1911. There were three sessions in all, the first in 1911—a special session for consideration of the Canadian reciprocity treaty—the tariff session from December 4, 1911, to August 24, 1912, and the session ending today, which began December 2, 1912.

Principal accomplishments of the sixty-second congress included: Abrogation of Russian passport treaty.

Admission of New Mexico and Arizona to statehood.

Ouster of Senator William Lorimer of Illinois.

Incumbent of Commerce Court Judge Robert W. Archbald.

Establishment of the parcel post.

Ghriests of Newport Beach on Trial for Alleged Assault on Law Officer

It was more than the jury could do to agree in the case of C. H. L. Ghriest of Newport Beach, charged with assault upon J. H. O'Howell, also of that thriving community, which was tried before Justice Cox in the township court yesterday, all the evidence not being in until late in the afternoon.

As a matter of fact there were two C. H. L. Ghriests involved, for both father and son were charged by O'Howell with literally jumping upon him when he essayed to replace their lock for one from the sheriff's office, upon a door at the Ghriest distillate house in the Newport town. O'Howell was representing Under Sheriff Law, and he charged that he had just about placed the lock on the Ghriest property, which was in dispute, when one

Judge West Finds For Chester Skeen in Suit Against Los Angeles Man

After hearing the testimony yesterday in the suit of Chester Skeen against N. W. Hendricks, a Los Angeles contractor, for $5100 for damages alleged to have been received by falling into a sewer trench on West Second street, this city, which the contractor was charged with having left unguarded and unlighted, Judge West late yesterday afternoon found judgment for the plaintiff but did not state the amount.

The case was brought to a close sooner than had been anticipated, as it was figured that about two days' time would be required for taking the evidence. Skeen was riding a horse on West Second street last May along where the new sewers were being placed. The horse stepped into the trench and threw his rider, Mr. Skeen suffering a broken leg.

The court will announce the amount of damages allowed the plaintiff within ten days. The plaintiff was represented by Attorney Steele S. Finley, while the defendant's interests were safeguarded by Attorney F. C. Austin of Los Angeles.

Because the case was finished yesterday afternoon there was no court today, as it had been expected the case would require two days' time.

Plans for the bridge to span Anaheim Landing have been asked for by the board of supervisors. The road will follow closely along the right of way of the Pacific Electric through Bay City, Sunset Beach, Huntington Beach, Newport to Balboa. The pictures were varied and all new, there being four reels, while the vaudeville was the feature, with two good acts. LEG OF THE LAW GOES HIKING UPWARD

Deputy Sheriffs Find a Tough Journey Up the Santa Ana Mountains

The arm of the law has long been noted for its length of reach, for on more than one occasion it has reached around the world to capture a criminal, but the leg of the law has been rarely heard of, notwithstanding the fact that good government, like most everything else, has to have something to stand upon.

But the leg of the law came into its own yesterday when Deputy Sheriffs Law and Dean found it necessary to hike through Black Star canyon to the top of the hills whereon reclines the Hidden ranch. The hills are a part of the Santa Ana mountains, and the ascent to the Hidden ranch is steep, slippery and slow.

A warrant had been sworn out before Justice of the Peace Cox for the arrest of Jim Colt, who is also said to be known by the name of Guy Matthews. He had been charged by Frank Wineman with "disturbing the peace," said disturbance having been in the nature of an attack upon the complainant.

The officers set out to serve the warrant, and they found that it was a hike that was real hike. "We thought of horses—at least Dean did," said the under sheriff this morning. "But horses couldn't have made the trip at all. It was simply straight up all the way. That Hidden rancho is hidden, alright, alright. Funny thing, though, I never once thought of Glenn Martin and his airship. They would have been the real thing for such a trip."

Colt was arraigned before Justice Cox and held in $25 cash bail for his preliminary examination next Monday morning at 10 a. m.

HARD FORMATION IN WELL HALTS WORK

Drillers Down Two Hundred Feet Encounter Unexpected and Serious Trouble

ORANGE, March 4.—The Standard Oil Company's well, east of Olive, now down 200 feet, has encountered difficulties with water near the surface, and is temporarily laid up.

It was necessary to go down twenty feet with a pit and use cement to shut out the water.

Progress on the well is slow owing to the character of the digging so far encountered. Much rock has been found, which has presented the greatest cause of delay.

A rotary outfit is being employed for drilling, and under favorable conditions, fast time may be made with this outfit. When the present difficult formations have been passed, it is expected that the work will proceed at a much faster pace. Two crews of six men each are constantly at work.

Best Known Cough Remedy

For forty-three years Dr. King's New Discovery has been known throughout the world as the most reliable cough remedy. Over three million bottles were used last year. Isn't this proof? It will rid you of your cough, or we will refund your money. J. J. Owens, of Allendale, S. C., writes the way hundreds of others have done: "After twenty years, I find that Dr. King's New Discovery is the best remedy for coughs and colds that I have ever used." For coughs or colds and all throat and lung troubles, it has no equal. 50c and $1.00 at all druggists.—Advertisement.

Landmarks of Typewriter Progress

Such are all the recent developments of the

Remington

(Visible Models 10 and 11)

Among these developments are:

The Built-in Decimal Tabulator—which makes the decimal tabulating mechanism an integral part of the typewriter.

The Tabulator Set Key—which eliminates all hand setting of the tabulator stops.

The Column Selector—which determines, by the stroke of a single key, the exact point on each line where the writing is to begin.

The Adding and Subtracting Remington (W.H. Mechanism)—which combines in one typewriter, and in one operation, the functions of the writing machine and the adding machine.

Every one of these new developments is an evidence of the perpetual leadership of the Remington Typewriter. Illustrated booklet descriptive of all recent Remington improvements, sent on request.

SANTA ANA HAS PRAISE FOR POMONA

Given Position of Honor and Attraction at Chamber of Commerce

SPLENDID LINE OF PRODUCTS EXHIBITED

Orange County Shares With Its Friendly Rival Full Space for Fine Display

"By Air Line Special—Pomona Products Delivered by Glenn L. Martin via Venice, Long Beach, Santa Monica to Santa Ana."

This is the placard announcement that greets all visitors to the main exhibit room of the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce on the second floor of the city hall. In the most conspicuous place in the large room that is in reality a veritable granary of products of the soil, the big chest that Glenn Martin carried on his recent aerial tour of the southland has been placed for the education and edification of all visitors.

As a matter of fact the big chest contains a most interesting exhibit. It contains in all 32 varieties of fruit, vegetables and grain, with a few other odds and ends thrown in for good measure. There are two departments in the box, the upper portion being divided into eighteen receptacles, or boxlike apartments about two and a half by four inches, in which are samples of things grown at Pomona and vicinity. In the lot are samples of navy beans, almonds, walnuts, apricots, olives, figs, prunes, corn, dried beef pulp, Egyptian corn, barley, oats, a nest of three eggs, apples, and citrus fruit varieties. In the large under apartment of the box are canned goods, such as tomatoes, corn, horse-radish, etc., all products of that part of Los Angeles county. It is a splendid exhibit, showing as it does to impressive advantage the admirable resources of the Pomona district, and the magnificent fertility of the soil in that section.

"We have had hundreds of visitors inquire about that exhibit," said Secretary Metzger today. "It is one of the best advertisements I dare say, that Pomona ever put out. Mr. Martin's international reputation as an aviator naturally lends an additional interest to the display, and I am delighted to see so many people get interested. Santa Ana can help Pomona just as Pomona can help Santa Ana. There is plenty of room for development in all parts of this wonderful country, although Santa Ana is naturally the ideal spot for the people who want the closest approach to perfection that is to be found on this mundane sphere."

SALARY QUESTION TO BE CONSIDERED

Representatives of Chambers of Commerce Will Meet Here and Confer

Pay of county officials will be the subject of a conference here tomorrow afternoon, following the suggestion of a recent meeting of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange County at Anaheim. Officially the subject is known under the guise of "The County Government Bill," which is aimed to enforce rigid economy in the salaries of all county officials and subordinates. At the Anaheim meeting a committee was deputed to consider all phases of the question, if possible, and report back to another meeting to be held in Santa Ana, Wednesday evening, March 12. This committee is composed of the presidents of the chambers of Fullerton, Orange, Anaheim, Huntington Beach and Santa Ana, with President F. H. Case of the local organization chairman of the committee.

The meeting is for 2 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. In the evening at 7 o'clock the regular board meeting of the local chamber will be called to order.

Apricot Outlook For The Coming Season

BY J. G. BERNEIKE, M. D.

Record crops for localities or the state at large have come at intervals of four or five years. It is a commonly accepted fact that one bumper crop does not immediately follow another. 1908 and 1912 have been record crops for the state. 1908 was the bumper crop for Orange county.

For the state at large we may therefore safely predict a lighter crop than that of last year. For Orange county we may now repeat with stronger emphasis what I said some time ago, that the indications are for a good crop. Observation shows such a full setting of fruit buds that we are justified in predicting a bumper crop like that of 1908. Of course, we will not count our chickens before they are hatched. Inclement weather during blossoming, or the rot, after the fruit has set, may upset present calculations, and the wise man will wait until May before he may feel safe as to the outcome. But at least we are justified in looking hopefully toward the future. One grower said he had counted as many as 15 buds in a small bunch at the end of a twig.

If the trees set fruit as thickly as indicated at present, it will be much too thick for a desirable crop, and much thinning will be necessary. This may be accomplished by actual thinning out of the fruit after it has set. To get fruit of good size only two or three must be left in a bunch. Extra fertilizing with one of the nitrates may be necessary. This can be done after the grower feels convinced that the size of the crop on his trees calls for extra feeding. The object in any case should be to produce fruit of good, marketable size. Growers should become aware of the fact that the small size of fruit called "standard" is always a drug in the market. It finds no outlet in the export trade because most of the orders received from foreign countries are for equal quantities of choice, extra choice and fancy. This shows that if there were not some sale found for "standard" in the United States, it would be left absolutely on the growers' hands. And as a matter of fact, there are even now but a few markets in the United States in which there is any demand for this undesirable size of fruit. It cuts the price on orchard run.

The plain truth is that we apricot growers of Orange county need to raise the standard of our production in order to hold our own.

One other method of getting better fruit is by "heading back." The rank growth of the previous year must be cut back severely, especially with young trees, to prevent thin, sunburnt fruit at the ends of long and exposed shoots, and to encourage fruiting on the inside of the tree.

Still another method is to sweep off with a bamboo pole the blossom on the outside of the tree. They will come off easily when fully open, but when once the fruit has set it sticks tight, and only by cutting back can it be removed.

The thinning out by hand process is perhaps the most expensive, but it is extensively practiced in the north, especially where good canning sizes are desired.

If the crop turns out to be large, the trees will require more irrigation to mature and perfect the crop. The amount of winter rains will largely determine this matter. Green cover crops, if heavy, should be plowed under before the fruit sets, because the presence of a heavy cover crop favors the rot. Since the rot is one of nature's ways of thinning a crop, it may not prove to be wholly detrimental, and could be made to be quite useful if we only could stop the process when it has accomplished sufficient thinning. It is not probable that the black scale will be troublesome this year because the severe cold of January has no doubt given it a set back. By present appearances there will not be as early blossoming trees as last year, when some few were in full bloom by the end of February. The crop, however, may ripen just as early should it turn out that the crop is very full, the wise grower will take particular pains to take the best care of his trees, so that they may set fruit spurs for the next year. This process begins before this year's crop is off the trees, and continues through the rest of the summer and fall.

My next article will give my ideas of the outlook for the price. I will anticipate only by saying that we may look forward confidently to a better price than that of the past year. I will state the reasons upon which I base my prediction. Enough for now, that while we may be disappointed in the size of the crop, we are less likely to be disappointed as to a better price.

Pacific Coast News Letter

Democrats and Champ Clark Democrats will all look alike to Congressmen-elect Kettner of San Diego, and Church of Fresno, in the distribution of California patronage. That is the authoritative statement of both of the new members from the Golden State after a conference with Congressman Raker, who says that he holds the same view.

"If we are consulted," Kettner and Church said today, "we three will pull together, for the sole purpose of acting as agents for the men best qualified to fill the positions. Fitness to perform the service for the public will be the test of all candidates for patronage."

The two new men say they will consult both State Chairman Davis and National Committeeman Sanford, without involving themselves in either faction of the party in California.

Nursing San Diego Harbor Plan
San Diego's proposed harbor improvement to cost $388,637, under the estimate of the board of engineers of rivers and harbors, is being tenderly nursed along by Senator Works and Congressman-elect Kettner of California, in the hope that it may not be pruned out of the appropriation bill in conference next week. Kettner is working night and day to get sufficient votes in the House to retain it as it was written in by the Senate committee. Since the House leaders have given out word that the appropriations must be reduced, the chances are against San Diego for this year.

Congressman Needham, retiring next month, has just been shorn of his last bit of promised "recognition"—the appropriation for a postoffice building at Modesto.

Oregonians Want "Pie"
Some of Oregon's standpat Democrats are getting slightly too anxious for political pie, according to Judge Will R. King, national committeeman from that state, who is watching developments from here for a few weeks. He says that while most of the Wilson and Clark men in Oregon are really progressives, there are some who were scarcely known as members of the party until after November 5, and who now are claiming "the fruits of the labor of those who have spent years in promoting the cause of progressive Democracy."

"These hasty ones," says King, "should wait a reasonable length of time to demonstrate their sincerity."

A meeting of the national committee here on March 5 gives excuse for a rallying of party counselors from all parts of the country.

Would Correct Seamen's Bill
Attempts made by Senator Burton to secure the consent of his subcommittee to the elimination of the "efficiency" and "language test" clauses from the Seamen's bill at the demand of the shipowners, have led to the receipt of great numbers of telegrams of protest by Senators Smith of Michigan, Crawford of South Dakota, Martin of Virginia, and Fletcher of Florida, the remaining members of the subcommittee.

Senator Smith, who has charge of the Titanic disaster inquiry, replied to these telegrams with a statement that the efficiency test was of great value to the public, and that he would support the whole bill.

Congressman Kent of California, who helped pass the bill through the House, declared in his speech in its behalf: "We are anxious to have a merchant marine, but we can have no object in encouraging a merchant marine except that the people engaged in maritime service are American citizens and are properly paid, decently treated and in time of war are suitable for naval service. This law of enforcing virtual poonage certainly would not permit self-respecting Americans to take up this occupation except as a last resort."

No Report on Woman Suffrage
No report will be filed by the Senate committee on woman suffrage at the close of this session of Congress. Senator Overman, the chairman, has had no hearings on the subject since last spring, and says that nothing has come formally before him for action anyhow.

INAUGURATIONS PAST AND PRESENT

The story told by the dispatches from Washington does not indicate that much has been accomplished along the line of the new president's desires for simplifying the inaugural procedure, save as respects the giving up of the ball.

The majority of the presidents have felt the same way about fuss and feathers. George Washington hoped for a quiet, homey sort of an affair. But a grateful people set his wishes aside, and turned what he meant to be the quiet journey of an ordinary traveler into a jollification. He asked in vain to have the oath administered in private.

The story that Jefferson rode up to the capitol, tied his horse to the rail, and went in off hand to take the oath, is called mythical nowadays, as it is said a military company called for him at his simple boarding house and escorted him to the spot.

Today the inauguration involves system and machinery, with committees on which about 2500 citizens expend hard work. Bed and board must be found for visitors, the elaborate paraphernalia of a parade of 20,000 men must be organized, sleep and food must be arranged for great bodies of troops, reviewing stands must be erected and controlled, decorations and illuminations must be provided.

It is recalled that at the time of Jackson's inauguration, a frolicsome horde of rustic Goths poured down on the city. They broke open the doors of the White House, seized the punch prepared for invited guests, rolled the barrels of this liquid out on the lawn, and drank deep and spoke loud all night. When Harrison came in, the line was filled with log cabins and great hogheads of hard cider.

This national function may have moved away from democratic simplicity, but popular manners have vastly ameliorated since those old days.

BUYING OF STRANGERS

There is a great advantage, when you are making any kind of trade, in buying of someone who knows you and whom you know. The high-stepping horse purchased of some stranger usually develops fatal tricks. Similarly there is a moral hazard in buying goods at distant stores, where you are not well acquainted with the merchant and his clerks.

When you make a purchase at some distant department store, or when you send away an order to a distant city by mail, the person who handles the purchase is absolutely a stranger to you. You are simply one item in the day's grist of work to him, to be ground through the machine with hundreds of others. You can't get intelligent, thoughtful attention by such machine-like methods.

In buying at home, on the other hand, you know personally the people with whom you do business, or at least your face becomes familiar enough so that they recognize you as a regular customer. Both clerks and proprietors welcome you to their counters, and feel that you must be pleased at all hazards. Even if they wanted to misrepresent, which is most unusual, they would not dare do so. You are too close to their base of supplies, and you could do too much harm if unsatisfactory goods were worked off on you.

There must be a personal interest between seller and buyer to make purchases satisfactory. This personal interest cannot be built up on the occasional transient buying of distant shopping trips, where salespeople offer the goods and in substance say, "You can take it or leave it."

Where a personal relation grows up between the customer and the home stores, the salesman becomes more than a mere seller. He conceives that the regular customer must be regarded as a client who must be given good business advice about a purchase. Such help is of incalculable value to the public. You can only get it at home.

DARED DO JUSTICE

The universal acceptance of the California railroad commission's decision in the railway merger case illustrates the value of having an independent commission, possessed of the public confidence. Here was a decision distinctly in favor of the Southern Pacific. Its immediate effect was to put up the price of Southern Pacific stock, and stop the manipulation of the "bears" who were looking it in the market. Yet not a person has so much hinted in his innermost soul that the commission was under Southern Pacific influence to render this decision. In fact, for familiar stock-market reasons, the official influence of the Southern Pacific management would have been against the interest of the company. The Southern Pacific was better protected by the railroad commission than by its own directors. Yet the people of California not only do not suspect the commission of deciding in the interest of the railroad. For the most part, they are glad it was done. For it seems that the interest of the railroad and of the people was probably identical. And the people are friendly, not hostile to the Southern Pacific. They were never hostile to it as a business institution, and a business institution is the only thing it now is.

The worst investment the Southern Pacific ever made was to own the California railroad commission for thirty years. The best thing that ever happened to it was to get under a commission it did not own, elected on a radical "anti-railroad" ticket, and acting under a law giving it almost absolute power over the road. It is only a just commission that dares do justice. And justice is a better permanent asset than privilege.—Fresno Republican.

TRAVELLERS STUDIED

Two Clubs of Travel Section Department of Ebell Held Sessions

Studying that stirring period of early English history when flourish blurt old King Hal, whose unpleasant habit of divorcing or beheading his various wives whenever his fancy suggested, achieved for him a most unenviable notoriety in historical annals besides being most uncomfortable for his unfortunate queens, the ladies of Travelers Club No. 1, held their regular meeting at the home of Mrs. I. W. Van Cleave yesterday afternoon.

After following the unhappy fortunes of the first ill-fated wife of Henry VIII, the ladies quit the grave subject and turned to the more pleasant occupation of planning future social functions. The social period was made all the more delightful by the serving of hot waffles with real maple syrup, Mrs. Van Cleave giving her guests an out-of-the-ordinary treat. Needless to say that the unique afternoon spread was immensely enjoyed.

The ladies of Travelers, No. 2, assembled at the home of Mrs. W. S. Peck and studied Stoddard's lecture on the Tyrol, finding the reading hour most interesting.

When the social period of the afternoon rolled round, the hostess introduced the cafeteria plan of serving refreshments, the ladies seeking the vands to the musical strains of a march played by Mrs. Arnold Peck. The refreshments were most delicious.

Later Mrs. Arnold Peck played several piano numbers, delighting the ladies with her skill. A large attendance proved the continued interest in the travel studies.

Personals

Mrs. George Balderston spent a delightful day in Los Angeles yesterday. Mrs. Balderston is one of the lucky people having the happy knack of combining pleasure and business.

Mrs. Ada Champ, son Gerald, and mother, Mrs. K. T. Farnsworth, are moving today into the attractive six-room bungalow in the Wakeham tract which has just been completed for them. Since coming to Santa Ana about a year ago they have lived in the H. C. Humphrey house at 929 French street.

W. W. Wood, who, accompanied by his wife and little son, Rodney, came to this city several weeks ago, plans to return to his home at Spearfish, S. D., within a few days, leaving Mrs. Wood and Rodney to enjoy the mild weather here until summer is settled in South Dakota. Mr. Wood is a lumber map in his home town and spent today at San Pedro, studying the methods employed in shipping lumber on the Pacific coast.

Mr. Hertz, proprietor of the White House store, is spending the week at San Juan Hot Springs. Mr. J. Davis has traded his house and two lots at 913 Cypress avenue, to Mr. Lindlar for 160 acres of government land located twenty miles from Victorville. The Davises will move to their newly acquired homestead the latter part of this week.

Miss E. Hanlon of Chicago visited at the home of Mrs. Varley on Walnut street. She was a friend and neighbor of Mrs. Varley. She was more than delighted with the climate here and especially with Santa Ana. Miss Hieney, formerly of Crookshank & Beatty Co., also was a guest of Mrs. Varley.

C. H. Metzgar has returned from Greensburg, Penn., where he lately journeyed with the remains of his father, H. T. Metzgar. Mr. Metzgar finds a delightful contrast between the sunny days of California and the frigid weather of the east.

Miss Clara Luse of Audubon, Iowa, who is making an extended stay in this city, having come here last July to visit Mrs. W. L. Carey of 325 East Pine street, went to Los Angeles this morning and will spend a week visiting among her friends there. While in the Angel City Miss Luse will be a member of a house party to be given for former lawns at the home of Mrs. Agnes Stott of Hoover street. Miss Luse is charmed with our balmy climate and hopes to induce her parents to spend their winters here in the future.

Among the local people spending the day in Los Angeles today were Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Dorn, Miss Catherine O'Donnell, Mrs. A. C. Bowers, Mrs. J. H. Rankin, Mrs. C. B. Lewis and Miss Bessie Lewis, J. H. Rensler and A. J. Perkins.

Through an exchange of property, R. H. Gaines has secured the pretty cottage at 612 South Flower street, formerly owned by "Ted" Davidson, and moved his family into it a few days ago. Up to the time of moving the Gaines family had lived at 1318 Bush street.

Miss Minnie Thomas of Orange went to Los Angeles this morning for an over-night stay with friends prior to leaving tomorrow for Lancaster, Cal., to make a visit of two months to her

LIFE FOR A MARRIED MAN ONE HOOK AFTER ANOTHER

James Montgomery Flagg, the famous wit and artist, contributes in words and pictures an amusing piece to the March American Magazine, an extract from which follows:

"Life for married men nowadays is just one damned hook after another. You pause in the midst of your second shave in twelve hours, with the latter that will not dry on the face doing so, to wrestle with Polly's hooks and eyes."

"You cuss Lady Duff Gordon for the devilish flaps and cross hitchings and over and under hairs that you only begin to master as the gown is about to be discarded. When you cannot find a partner for a certain young hook you surreptitiously hitch him onto a hook of lace or a row of insane glass beads, without a halt, in the rhythm lest Polly suspect!"

"And when a hook hangs back and refuses to meet a willing eye across the two-inch chasm you grunt and mutter, 'Gee, you must be getting larger' or 'Why the deuce don't you pull those strings tighter so this dress will meet?' By the way, why is it that in moments of emotional stress men will forget that they are 'gowns' or 'trunks' and not 'dresses'?"

"These impolite remarks of yours naturally rile Polly, so she says, 'Let it go—I'll ring for Sandra—she understands!'"

"This, as was intended, stimulates you with renewed determination. And you reply, 'Of course Sandra's mentality is much superior to mine—blu blu, blu, etc., etc.' If you looked over Polly's shoulder into the mirror you would see her winking wickedly at herself."

"Just as you have nearly stretched that little gauzy triangular patch across the V between the shoulder blades Polly, of course, raises her arm and begins rubbing off the excess powder around her pretty nose. You lose the combination."

"If you expect me to hook this damthing while you are isadoraduncaning all over the room you are laboring under a delusion! You get this off with the usual restraint and anxiety for under-statement of the regular husband."

"Discreet silence. The work is at last completed. You smile with pity when you think of all that talk about the Panama canal being such a stupendous feat of engineering."

They were coming down town in the Fifth avenue bus.

"Do you know what I'm juth crathly for?" lisped she to him. "One of thothe cute thapire and diamond ringth for the little finger. Would that be very expensive?"

"That would depend," said he sagely, "on how large the sapphires and diamonds are."

"Well," said she, considering, "I should thiertainly want them large enough." Then, after a pause, "How much would that cothth?"—New York Evening Sun.

Spiced Grapes

Squeeze the pulp out of the grapes and cook it a few minutes until you can press it all through a sieve. Reject the seeds, weigh the pulp and skins, and to each pound of fruit allow three-quarters of a pound of sugar, one-half pint of vinegar, one-half tablespoonful of ground cloves, one-half tablespoonful of ground cinnamon, one-half tablespoonful of allspice and one-half teaspoonful of ginger. Put all this into a preserving kettle, stir it frequently and cook it slowly for an hour. Put it into glasses, let it stand for two or three days and then cover with paraffin in the usual way.

Good-Night!

"Here, here," cried the bartender, pounding on the mahogany.

"What's the matter?" asked the customer, who was about to leave.

"That's a bad quarter you gave me!"

"Well, that was a bad cocktail you gave me. And you don't have to swallow the quarter, do you? You're still ahead. Good-night!"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

BANNING RANCH IS SOLD FOR $290,000

Large Tract Will Either be Subdivided or Oil Drilling Operations Begun

That a large section of the old Banning rancho of 3500 acres will be subdivided into small farms, or that drilling for oil, will be started, is indicated by the recent sale of 1020 acres by Mary Banning Norris to Bryan & Bradford and H. H. Cotton of Los Angeles. The actual consideration and the money to be spent for improvements will total over $290,000, it is reported. Mr. Cotton is chairman of the Democratic committee of Los Angeles county.

The historic Banning rancho comprises a portion of the old Spanish grant Rancho Santiago de Santa Ana. With the exception of the Irvine property, it has been the largest single holding in Orange county. Passing into the hands of the Bannings at an early date it finally was presented to Mary Banning as a wedding gift.

The property can be reached by the way of the Pacific Electric from Los Angeles to Newport and thence by the way of Newport-Santa Ana line, or by the way of the Southern Pacific directly to Thurin or Harper station.

Bryan & Bradford have opened a special department, and will market the holdings under the name of Fairview Farms.

PIKES PEAK NOT THE HIGHEST

What is the highest mountain in Colorado? "Pikes Peak," nineteen persons out of twenty will answer, and incorrectly. The twentieth may know that the two highest mountains in the state are Mount Massive and Mount Elbert, both in Lake county, in the Leadville district. The altitude of each of these mountains, according to the United States Geological Survey, is 14,402 feet above sea level. The height of Pikes Peak is 14,108 feet. Moreover, there are fifty or sixty other peaks in Colorado approximately as high—over 14,000 feet. The lowest point in Colorado is 3,350 feet above sea level. Of all the states Colorado has the highest average altitude, estimated by the Geological Survey at 6,890.

FUNERAL OF LATE W.R. EDWARDS HELD

Many Handsome Floral Pieces From Organizations and Mourning Friends

Bereaved relatives and sorrowing friends paid the last honors and respect to the mortal remains of the late W. R. Edwards, whose funeral was conducted this afternoon from the chapel of Messrs. Mills and Winbiger on North Main street near Sixth.

Mr. Edwards was a pioneer resident of this city. For many years he has been an active Mason, his membership now being in the Weaver-ville Blue Lodge. He was a Knight Templar.

Through his mother he was connected with two old Virginia families, Fitzhugh and Churs, whose fame dates back to the Revolutionary days.

The chapel was crowded with mourners, and the casket was covered with beautiful flowers and had some floral designs, the gifts of friends and organizations with which the deceased had been affiliated.

The services at the chapel were conducted by Rev. Rufus S. Chase, rector of the Church of the Messiah, of which Mr. Edwards had been a most devout member, as well as one of the earliest members of the church in this city. He had also been a trustee of the church. Mrs. A. J. Padgham officiated at the organ and "Rock of Ages" was sung with impressive effect by Mrs. James Rice and Miss Beth Phillips. There was also a most charmingly rendered solo by Mrs. Rice, "Face to Face."

Mrs. Edwards, widow of the deceased, was unable to attend the funeral services, as she has not recovered from the shock of her husband's death, this being the first time that death had entered the family. A son and daughter, Charles H. Edwards, of Weaverville, Cal., and Miss Katharine Edwards, of this city, attended the funeral. Another daughter, Mrs. Herbert Gary, of Weaverville, was unable to be present.

Interment was a Fairhaven cemetery, where the final ceremonies were in charge of the Masonic fraternity. The pallbearers were George A. Edgar, J. R. Paine, George W. Minter, A. J. Padgham, Edward Gray and James Rice.

It was stated this afternoon that Mrs. Edwards is in a precarious condition. The sudden death of her husband has proven to be a most severe shock, and as she is well along in years her friends and relatives are very much concerned.

A dozen treaties were negotiated during the life of the congress. The reciprocity pact was rejected by Canada and the emasculated "peace treaties" with Great Britain, France, and Germany were authorized, but never presented to the foreign powers.

During the first session in 1911, President Taft vetoed bills to revise the wool, cotton, and steel tariffs and a bill to put agricultural machinery on the free list.

The second session was devoted almost entirely to tariff, six bills passing the house and two by the senate. The latter, revising duties on wool and cotton manufactures, were vetoed. Attempts to pass them over the vetoes failed.

Orange, March 4. Announcement was made here today by the directors of the McPherson Heights Citrus Fruit Association that hereafter they will ship all navel oranges with a guarantee that they are frostless.

This decision follows a visit to Riverside, where they witnessed a demonstration with a new patented frost-testing machine, which does the work so satisfactorily that the McPherson directors are satisfied that they can make good their frostless guarantee. They have purchased one of the machines.

Frostless navels are commanding the highest price in New York than ever before in the history of the fruit, according to authorities here, netting the growers $2 per box. To maintain this standard the frostless guarantee will be given.

From the superintendent's report: Laid 1300 feet of 20-inch pipe, 2476 feet of 10-inch pipe, 1400 feet of 12-inch pipe, 52 feet of 14-inch pipe, with division boxes, settling tanks, etc.

Labor—70 yards of gravel delivered for well and pipe lines; 425 2-3 days work done on repairs, new work and zanjero; 58 days team work.

Materials used—112½ barrels of cement; 2 1/2 barrels of lime; 2495 feet of 10-inch pipe; 1516 feet of 12-inch pipe; 17 K. T. valves.

Materials used in well work—443 feet of 18-inch casing; 9990 feet of lumber; 1-horse hoist; 300 feet of cable.

Depth of well, 469 feet, 200 feet of which was dug, and 269 feet drilled.

Pump—15-inch column pipe, 14-inch cylinder, set 277 feet from surface, with a 20-foot suction pipe; A. F. M. 60-horse power gas engine; 15,000 gallon fuel tank.

A statement of the joint account with the Serrano Water Company was read and approved, which showed a large amount of very beneficial work accomplished in spreading the storm waters, etc.

A motion was made to instruct the secretary to cast the ballot for the present board of directors, which was done, and J. C. Thomas, R. W. Jones, A. B. Baker, L. W. Evans and W. W. Perkins were declared elected.

On motion the board was instructed to replace the present defective gates with modern gates that will not leak. They were also instructed to make out the new water schedules on the basis of 30½ days apart, instead of for 18½ days as at present, with the right of any stockholder to have his water runs so scheduled as to come each 15 days, or thereabouts.

The question of constructing a storage dam in Fremont Canyon in conjunction with the Serrano Water Co. and James Irvine was discussed, and it was the sense of the meeting to use the privileges granted before the option expires, which is in about four years.

It was estimated that for less than $10 per share a dam could be constructed capable of impounding a body of water that would supply 300 inches for 100 days.

On motion the meeting adjourned.

FLAMING WIRES ARE CAUSING COMPLAINT

Property Owner Declares He Was Refused Protection
He Demanded

Whose duty is it to take charge of a flaming electric line pole? This is the question that J. L. Field, whose home is at 1499 West Fourth street, was busy asking at the city hall early this afternoon, and to which he had not received a satisfactory reply up to the hour of going to press. Mr. Field, who is an elderly man, was in no satisfied state of mind when he began seeking official information on the subject. He began his search during the noon hour, and for some time he was stumped for enlightenment owing to the absence of officials who had departed for their nighttime luncheon.

Police Judge Willson, however, was on duty in his office, and to him Mr. Field related his complaint. According to his story, his residence was threatened with destruction by fire just one week ago, because a pole that carries wires charged with electricity was burning, due, in his opinion, to some unknown defect in the line at that point. He asserts that from 9 p.m. until 4 a.m., the wires and poles were shooting sheets of flame about West Fourth street opposite his home, a distance of about twenty feet. So fierce were the flames that he expected every moment to see his residence take fire.

"I first called up the Edison company, which supplies my house with light," said Mr. Field, "and I was informed that they had nothing to do with the case, and referred me to the Pacific Electric company. When I called up the P. E. I was informed that they had nothing to do with such a matter. I next tried the fire department and got exactly the same sort of satisfaction.

At 2 o'clock in the morning the outlook was dangerous. I again tried the Edison and the P. E. but got no better consideration than I had in the first instance. I then demanded that the Edison people come to my place and detach the wires, as I expected momentarily that the fire would run over the wires into my house. There were explosions that made as loud reports as a cannon would have made, but I could get no protection of any kind from anybody.

"The best I got was the suggestion that I put out the fire myself.

"I have come to the city hall to see if it is possible to learn whether property owners are entitled to any protection or not, and to ascertain, if possible, to whom we can look for protection in such cases."

At the office of the Edison company it was stated that the wire in question was the property of the Pacific Electric company, that it carried 17,000 voltage, and that the Edison people had no right or authority to touch it. It was also stated that it was impossible under the circumstances to detach the wires in Mr. Field's house, and that it would have meant certain death had such an attempt been made. It was explained that the Edison people had notified the Pacific Electric authorities as early as 9:30 o'clock that evening that the pole and wires were in a dangerous state.

Agent Batty of the P. E. company said he could not understand how any notice could have been sent to his company regarding such a case during the hours of 9 p.m. to 4 a.m., as there is no one at his office. He said the company always acts promptly and considerably in all such cases, and is always ready and willing to remove all danger that may arise from whatever cause. He had heard nothing of the case until an employee of the electrical department of the Los Angeles office had come here, and it is presumed that complaint had been made to the main office. He expressed his intention of investigating the case.

Insane Asylums

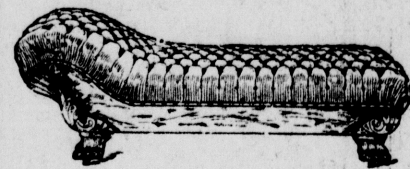

The great Greek physicians had devoted much attention to insanity, and some of their precepts anticipated modern discoveries, but no lunatic asylum appears to have existed in antiquity. In the first period of the monastic life a refuge is said to have been opened for the insane at Jerusalem, but this appears to have been a solitary instance, arising from exigencies of a single class, and it may be said that no lunatic asylum existed in Christian Europe until about the time of the fifteenth century.

DARROW TRIAL NEARS ITS FINISH

Defense and Prosecution Rest;
Violent Scenes—Case May
Go to Jury Thursday

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—The Darrow prosecution today rested its rebuttal.

It is expected the final arguments will begin immediately after the rebuttal testimony. Both sides will get eight hours. The case will probably go to the jury Thursday.

Darrow yesterday completed his testimony in his own trial and the defense rested.

District Attorney Fredericks took the stand as the prosecution's principal rebuttal witness. He testified he had no definite arrangements completed for the McNamara to plead guilty at the time of Franklin's arrest on the charge of jury bribery.

Fredericks' tenacity of the witness stand this forenoon was marked by verbal pyrotechnics culminating in an exchange of personalities between Fredericks and Darrow. When Fredericks persisted in attempting to explain his answers, Darrow shouted: "Fredericks ought to know better than to try to argue to a jury when on the witness stand." Fredericks retorted: "I demand the right to explain my replies." Judge Conly ruled that there was no necessity to explain. Fredericks continued his talk, shouting loudly to drown out Judge Conly, Darrow and Ford, all of whom were attempting to make themselves heard. Darrow finally remarked something about the "dents in Fredericks' brain," which started the melee afresh. After Fredericks' testimony was concluded, the defense recalled Franklin for cross-examination in sur rebuttal. Several other sur rebuttal witnesses were summoned.

Special Prosecutor Gray began final arguments for the state shortly before noon.

1913 INAUGURAL PARADE MOST IMPOSING

Half Million Acclaimed New
Ruler of Country in True
American Fashion

50,000 SOLDIERS, SAILORS
AND CIVILIANS IN MARCH

Pomp and Pageantry Marked the Greatest Inaugural Parade
on Historic Avenue

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 4.—A half million lusty-lunged Americans today acclaimed, in typical American fashion, a new ruler, a tall, slender man, wreathed in smiles, standing in his carriage bowing and waving to a mile of densely-packed humanity was the object of the ovation. This was Woodrow Wilson—President Thomas R. Marshall had his share of the applause, too.

Following the exact path of twenty-seven former presidents, President Wilson was the central figure of the pomp and pageantry of the greatest inaugural parade ever assembled on historic Pennsylvania avenue. It was an observance of the precedents of generations.

From the steps of the inaugural reviewing stand at the capitol, with the kiss of the bible in the hands of Chief Justice White still warm upon his lips, President Wilson was the object of tumultuous and vociferous applause as he led the pageant of 50,000 soldiers, sailors, and civilians to the white house, and there reviewed them. Today's parade was declared the most pretentious of any in history. In length, numbers, and novel features it was unique. For nearly three hours it wended its way through Pennsylvania avenue. It was nearly dusk before the last marchers passed the new president through the "Court of Honor."

Crowds along Pennsylvania avenue packed every bit of room and filled every seat in capacious grandstands. The broad avenue, swept clean and carefully roped off was bordered by two walls of a gay canyon of bunting, lined with a cheering multitude that filled every inch of space and every available balcony and window. Packers did a thriving business in selling big packing boxes to crowds about. These were rushed near the curb and afforded the owner a private grandstand of his own.

The greatest crowd that ever greeted an incoming president and vice president shouted itself hoarse. Three hundred thousand Washingtonians and visitors, estimated at 200,000, viewed the spectacle.

Represented in the ranks of marchers were the army, navy, West Point and Annapolis cadets, governors and their staffs, 100 bands, veterans of many wars, political clubs, Tammany "braves," cowboys, college men, and suffragettes. It was replete with startling, novel and unique features, from Virginia foxhounds, Indian braves and college glee clubs to crowds of temperance "white ribboners."

Specially predominant was the college atmosphere—education's tribute to a great educator, President Wilson. Thousands of college men, alumni of practically every great university, and college of the country, were in line.

The parade was composed of four "grand" divisions. First was the army and navy, with nearly 7,000 men; second, the state militia with about 12,000 men; third, war veterans, and fourth, civic organizations. Every state and almost every large city of the nation sent its quota to swell the stream of splendor.

Forming about the capitol since dawn this morning, the parade began shortly before 1:30 o'clock. While President Wilson was delivering his inaugural address, thousands of troops began forming the line of march through the capitol grounds. Preceded by a squad of 100 mounted motor-cycle and bicycle policemen, the head of the parade extended eight blocks to the Peace monument, at the foot of Pennsylvania avenue, before President Wilson, Vice President Marshall and fifty carriages filled with members of the supreme court, senate, house, inaugural committees, relatives of the incoming executives, and political leaders filed in front of the capitol after the formal inaugural ceremonies there.

President Wilson with former President Taft seated at his left, occupied the foremost carriage. It drew away from the capitol reviewing stand with the Essex cavalry troop as an escort, while Vice President Marshall, escorted by the Culver Military Academy "Black Horse Hussars," of Indiana, drew in behind.

In front of the presidential carriage and its escort was Maj. Gen. Leonard Wood, grand marshal of the parade, his staff and thirty aides. Wood wore a voluminous white sash. Red sashes were worn by his staff, Lieut. Col. H. T. Allen, chief of staff, and Lieut. Col. H. C. Hodges, adjutant general. The aides, including high officers from each branch of the army and navy service, wore white sashes. All were resplendent with gold lace, medals, plumes and were astride richly caparisoned mounts—the finest horseflesh in the "service."

As the grand marshal approached the Peace monument, cheering swept in mighty volume up the entire length of Pennsylvania avenue. It broke into an uproar when President Wilson's carriage appeared. The incoming executive was forced continually to acknowledge the plaudits of the throngs packing both sides of the avenue, a sea of waving flags and bunting.

Following custom, ex-President Taft sat with his hat on throughout the ride, even ignoring an occasional and faint shout for the outgoing Republican executive. Tradition and custom decrees that the outgoing president shall regard every particle of the demonstration as given his successor, and shall not even appear to note it. Nevertheless, the Taft smile, as of old, was in evidence as he heard Democratic exuberance but ill-concealed in the shouts of triumph with which they acclaimed a president of their faith.

Behind carriages carrying President Wilson and Vice President Marshall came vehicles carrying Mrs. Wilson and the three Wilson daughters. Following that of the Wilson family was the Marshall family. Then came the automobiles and carriages of other distinguished participants.

Slowly the procession to the White House began. The carriages proceeded at a walk, to afford a good view of the president to the crowds in the stands and windows. Soldiers stood at "attention" all along the avenue, spaced every few feet, in front of the tautly stretched ropes holding back the sidewalk crowds.

Green and white was the official color scheme of the decorations. Lining the streets were tall pennants of those colors, their staffs supporting festoons of electric bulbs for the illuminations tonight.

When the march from the Peace monument began a salvo of 101 guns—the national salute—was fired by a battery of artillery on the white house Ellipse. It was followed by the presidential salute of twenty-one guns and the vice presidential salute of eighteen guns.

DEMOCRATS TALK OF PATTON FOR GOVERNOR

Believe He Would Be Regular Moses Leading Them Out of Political Darkness

A recent dispatch in the Register referring to the announcement that some friends of Hon. George S. Patton were advocating his nomination for governor next year, has already attracted considerable attention throughout the state, as Mr. Patton is a man of prominence as well as of popularity. His Democratic friends profess to see in him the Moses who can safely lead them out of the political darkness in which they have groped in this grand commonwealth these many years.

Under the caption of "George S. Patton, the Right Gubernatorial Timber," the Woodland (Yolo county) Democrat prints the following: From the Santa Ana Daily Register we learn that public sentiment in the southern part of the state is crystallizing in favor of naming Hon. George S. Patton as the next Democratic candidate for governor.

This is based partly on the assumption that the South has a paramount claim upon the nomination, inasmuch as that part of the state has not had a gubernatorial nomination for about thirty years.

There is a stronger reason, however, in our opinion, than that of location. Mr. Patton's sterling Democratic principles, his courageous and persistent battling against an overwhelming majority and his unwavering integrity and strong intellectuality have marked him as a conspicuous character among the Democratic leaders of the state.

Of course the time for nominating a candidate is too far away to definitely determine at this time who will be the strongest man to name. Many things may transpire in the meantime that would bring into prominence and availability a candidate whose name is not now considered, but nothing is likely to happen to lessen the high regard in which Mr. Patton is held by the Democrats of California.

TAFT ESCORTED WILSON ON PARADE

President Paid All Courtesy to President-Elect Prescribed
by Ancient Custom

PRIVATE AND MILITARY ESCORT FOR MARSHALL

Families of New Officials Are Honored by Special Military Escort

Carefully prescribed according to ancient custom and etiquette were the ceremonial today preliminary to the actual induction into office of President Wilson and Vice President Marshall.

Two parades were the principal public features, the first from the White House to the capitol, and the main display returning after the administration of the oaths and President Wilson's inaugural address.

At 10 o'clock this morning the first parade began forming at the Shoreham Hotel, by coincidence the temporary home of both Wilson and Marshall. Wilson was the guest there last night of his cousin, John E. Wilson, of Franklin, Pa., and Marshall has engaged permanent quarters there.

Setting for the preliminary military pageant at the hotel was in the capital's miniature "Wall Street," two blocks from the White House. Thousands of spectators banked the narrow streets, eager for the first glimpse of the new executives today, long before the Wilsons had breakfasted. On all sides of the hotel, soldiers, police, mounted and on foot, kept taut the lines.

Gen. Leonard Wood, chief of staff of the army and grand marshal of today's ceremonies, with his staff of thirty officers, arrived with a clatter of hoofs and waving sashes and plumes at 10 o'clock. Wood called upon the new executive in the latter's apartments, and announced that all was in readiness for the brief ride to the White House.

Mr. Wilson and Mr. Marshall, accompanied by the joint congressional committee of the Senate and House, who arrived before Grand Marshall Wood, stepped from the east portico of the hotel to waiting carriages. Mr. Wilson and two members of the congressional committee occupied the first carriage, an open barouche drawn by four horses, without riders.

An escort of mounted police opened the march to the White House. Grand Marshal Wood and his staff, glittering with gold and lace and with clanking armor, followed.

The President-elect's own personal escort was the crack "Essex Troop" of cavalry, of Newark, N. J., composed of 250 crack horsemen of New Jersey's militia. Their brilliant scarlet and buff uniforms and visored hats with large plumes, were set off by the guidons on staffs set on their stirrups—a brilliant column of kaleidoscopic color. Most of their horses were bays and roans. They formed before and behind and beside the Wilson carriage.

Vice President-elect Marshall, with three members of the congressional committee, rode behind the Essex Troop. He also had a personal escort—the Culver Black Horse Troop, of Indiana. Over 100 shining black steeds bore the vice presidential troops, in uniforms of gray. Today was the first time in the history of inaugurations that private and military escort was accorded the Vice President.

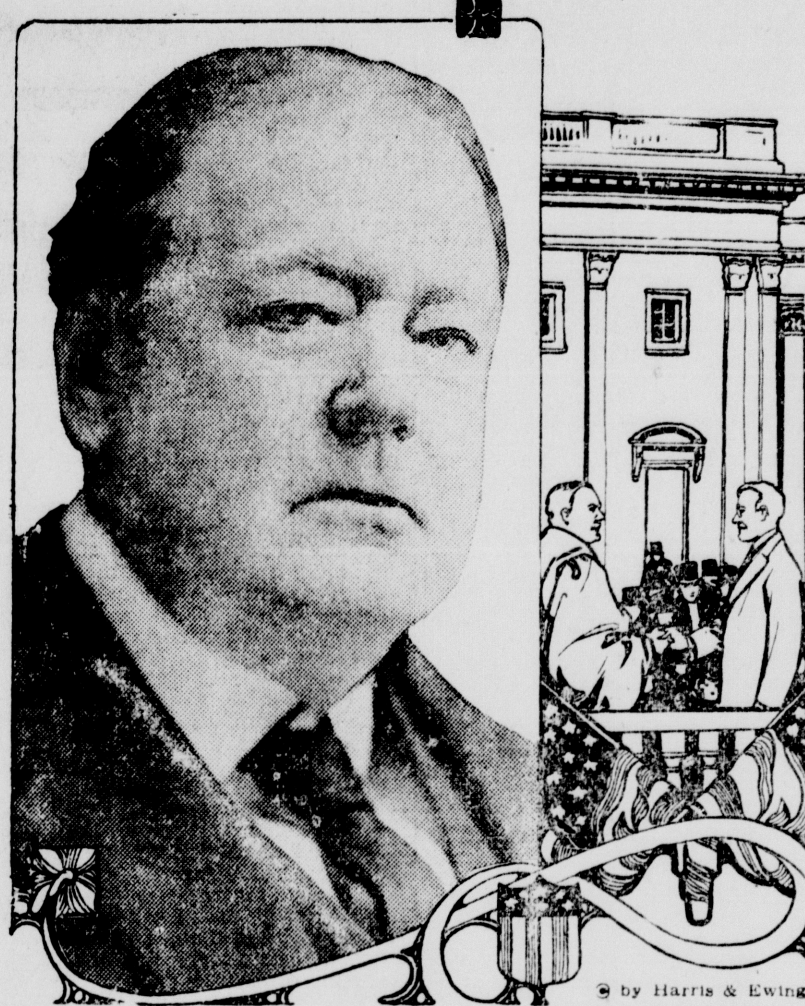

Sweeping into Pennsylvania avenue, while crowds shouted themselves hoarse, the troops and carriages made their first appearance today in the court of honor and rode into the west entrance of the White House grounds. The escorts lined the driveway to the White House portico, and formed on the tender lawns—the pride of White House gardeners—while the Wilson and Marshall parties stepped into the mansion to be received by President Taft in the East Room.

But a few moments elapsed until President Taft and President-elect Wilson appeared together in the doorway.

They stepped into the four-horse carriage, President Taft seating himself on the right and Mr. Wilson on the left. On the opposite seat sat the congressional committee. The carriage drew slowly away, while Mr. Marshall and his party re-entered their carriages and formed for the drive down the avenue to the capitol.

Through the east entrance to the White House grounds, the horsemen and carriages entered Pennsylvania avenue shortly before 11 o'clock. Passing the Treasury Department, great crowds in the reviewing stands, which had taken their seats hours before, gave Taft and Wilson their first taste of the salvos of applause which continued in an unbroken roar down the avenue during the brief ride to the capitol.

The ride of one mile was made in quick time, the horses being urged to a fast trot, while the cavalry galloped a resounding tattoo on the asphalt paving.

Crowds lining the driveways of the capitol grounds gave the signal to the immense throng gathered on the plaza and parking in front of the building to shout their welcome to the new rulers, while their escorts cleared the way, the carriages disgorged their distinguished occupants at the Senate wing, the party passing through the immense bronze doors and up the Senate chamber for the formal ceremonies there.

While Mr. Wilson and Mr. Marshall were being conducted to the capitol, Mrs. Wilson, her daughters and relatives, were driven from the Shoreham Hotel, by back streets to the capitol. They had two companies of cavalry for an escort. Similar courtesy was shown the wife and party of the Vice President-elect.

TAFT BECOMES PLAIN CITIZEN ONCE AGAIN

WASHINGTON, March 4.—President Taft became "Citizen" Taft today. His four years' service as chief executive of the nation closed when Woodrow Wilson, with upraised hand, took the solemn oath of office at the capitol. "Citizen" Taft divided honors with former President Theodore Roosevelt as a "living ex-President."

Taft's retirement was marked by the courteous dignity for which he has been famous for four years. The "Taft smile" remained wreathing his face. He was the epitome of philosophic self-effacement.

As President Taft turned over the reins of office to his successor, so did Mrs. Taft relinquish her social crown as "first lady of the land" to Mrs. Wilson. Miss Helen Taft also yielded to the Misses Wilson.

At almost the same time "Citizen" Taft delivered his office keys to President Wilson. Mrs. Taft turned over the keys to the White House mansion, the home of so many Presidents, to its new mistress.

Honor to the outgoing occupants of the White House rivaled that shown the newcomers. The nation's "good-bye" to Mr. Taft and his family was with as sincere well wishes as the welcome to the new Presidential family.

When the President-elect was escorted from the Shoreham Hotel to the White House, at 10:30 this morning, the beginning of the end of the Taft administration approached. At 3:05 this afternoon, when their train left for the South, Washington said its adieu to the Tafts.

Atlanta, Ga., is the destination of the Tafts. They plan to remain there about three weeks, before leaving for New Haven, Conn., where Mr. Taft will take up his duties as a professor in the Yale University law school. The President said today he proposed to get a good rest, by playing golf daily and taking a complete "rest cure."

At New Haven, the Tafts will stop temporarily at the Taft Hotel. They will spend the summer in the North, and furnish their own home this winter at New Haven.

A large life-size oil painting of himself was left in the White House by Mr. Taft, following an ancient precedent.

The two spent the greater part of yesterday together. Among Mr. Morgan's distinguished visitors yesterday were Finley J. Shepard and Mrs. Shepard, formerly Miss Helen Gould, who arrived today.

CHIEF JUSTICE GIVES OATH TO WILSON

Vice President Was Sworn In by Senator Gallinger of
New Hampshire

MARSHALL ADMINISTERED
OATH TO SENATORS-ELECT

Mighty Demonstration Greeted
Wilson as He Appeared for Pledge of Service

The carriages bearing President Taft, President-elect Wilson, and Vice President-elect Marshall, reached the foot of the steps before the main entrance to the capitol at 10:45, and amid roars of applause from the great crowd the outgoing Chief Executive and his successor passed through the bronze doors and along the corridor to the president's room at the north end of the senate chamber. Governor Marshall was led to the vice president's room near by, waiting the completion of the business of the dying session of congress.

President Taft, while Governor Wilson looked on, plunged into the work of signing bills as they were brought to him from the senate. A great heap of documents accumulated at the end of the Lincoln table as he affixed his signature to more and more enactments, until finally the signal was given that the senate awaited its own dissolution.

Hardly had the president and president-elect been seated in the chamber of the senate, facing the assembled members of both houses, the Diplomatic Corps, and high judicial officers, than the vice president-elect was ushered in to take the oath, recited to him by Senator Gallinger of New Hampshire, president of the senate pro tempore. The senate then adjourned to immediately resume its session as part of the sixty-third congress.

Prayer by the chaplain opened the Democratic regime in the chamber. Vice President Marshall then rose, and in a clear, steady voice delivered his inaugural address. When he had concluded he called upon the senators-elect to come forward, and administered the oath to them. The senate was organized for the coming two years.

The grand procession to the capitol steps followed, where the formal transfer of authority from William Howard Taft to Woodrow Wilson—from the old Republican to the Democratic party—was to take place.

First walked the sergeants-at-arms of the two houses of congress, followed by the marshals of the Supreme Court and of the District of Columbia, then the Justices of the Supreme Court in their black gowns, with the committee on arrangements, acting as guard of honor to the president and the president-elect, who walked arm in arm.

Immediately behind them were the ambassadors to the United States and the ministers plenipotentiary, in gold lace and shining decorations, while Vice President Marshall and the Secretary of the Senate were led by ex-Vice Presidents Levi P. Morton and Charles W. Fairbanks, and were followed by the senators and members of the House of Representatives.

Members of the cabinet, governors of states and territories, Admiral Dewey and his aide, Major General Wood and his aide, and officers of the army and navy who by name had received the thanks of congress, held places in the line which wound through the long hall and out between the great bronze doors.

A preliminary outburst of applause at the opening of the panels to admit the members of the press had meanwhile grown to a roar of welcome from the thousands massed upon the stage outside, as the procession appeared. The tens of thousands who stood beyond the edge of the amphitheater caught up the sound, and as the portly figure of the outgoing president was distinguished in the doorway, and the audience caught sight of the pale, serious, scholarly figure at his side, the pent-up enthusiasm of all the Democratic visitors broke loose in a demonstration that reverberated up against the dome and rolled out over the hill, growing louder and louder as Taft and Wilson took up the stations assigned them upon the speakers' stand.

Slowly the procession of distinguished visitors from the senate galleries filed in upon the stage. The president and his successor, seated with Chief Justice White upon their right and the official committee upon their left, surveyed the tossing sea of faces and waving hats, handkerchiefs, banners, and canes, that filled the street and park to the north, east, and south.

The former Vice President, Supreme Court, Vice President Marshall, members of the senate and former senators were placed at the right. Next to them were the members-elect and retiring members of the house, while at the left were stationed the foreign diplomats, military and naval dignitaries, cabinet members, governors, and other specially honored officials.

Chief Justice White rose, and facing the crowd, delivered his address.

VISITORS COMING DAILY TO SEE ADVANTAGES

Crowds Daily Visiting the Fine
Exhibit at the Chamber of Commerce Rooms

The daily crowds of visitors at the chamber of commerce rooms is attracting attention in many circles, and not alone in Santa Ana but in outside cities. The striking and impressive display of Orange county products is proving more convincing than most of the literature distributed by less favored sections.

"These are ze most beautiful—most beautiful of all," was the joyous exclamation of Miss Eugenie Perdian, a charmingly cultivated Frenchwoman who was among the visitors a day or two ago. Mademoiselle was most enthusiastic over the beauties of Orange county and Santa Ana, and she regaled and entertained her companions in her broken English with her ejaculations and charming flatteries.

Among the visitors registered at the chamber of commerce the last day or two are the following:

Mrs. G. H. Holbrook and Miss Helen W. Holbrook, Providence, R. I.; Mrs. Ertha Richards Cole and Lellia R. Farrington, Bristol, R. I.; W. Edwards and A. Helena Armstrong, Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan; J. MISSION PLAY IS LOS ANGELES ASSET

LOS ANGELES, March 4.—"This community should get behind the Mission Play at San Gabriel," is the expressed opinion of Frank Wiggins, secretary of the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, "and adopt it as one of the institutions of Los Angeles."

The great transcontinental railroad systems early recognized that it was one of the attractions of California, and have announced it as such in all their literature during the past year.

The Rotary Club, the Realty Board, the "Ad" Club, the Traffic Managers' Association and the Southern California Hotel Men's Association will attend the two hundred and fiftieth performance of the play Wednesday evening.

CITY TRUSTEES DISCUSS VARIETY OF SUBJECTS OF MORE OR LESS IMPORTANCE

Businesslike dispatch marked the proceedings of the city trustees at their meeting last night at the city hall. Mayor Ey presided and all the members of the board were in attendance.

Only about a dozen citizens were present, and City Attorney Heathman was on hand as usual.

East First Paving

Property owners on East First street petitioned for the improvement of that street from Main to the Santa Fe tracks, the work to cost not more than 10 cents per square foot. There were 3599 feet of property frontage represented on the petition. The total frontage is 6775 feet. It was stated that of the amount not signed up 1699 feet is owned by local people and 1436 by others. Of this latter amount 849 feet is held by corporations. The estimated cost of the improvement is $17.95 per lot of 50-foot frontage, this cost including the cost of intersections.

Trustee Grubb said it was a manifest injustice to the East First street people that the trustees could not pay for the intersection work as in the case of Bush street, but the fact remains that the city is not in position to do so at present. He moved that the petition be granted, but neither Trustee McPhee or Trustee Greenleaf would second, and so no action was taken. By request the petition was returned to the petitioners.

City Attorney Heathman then took occasion to inform both the trustees and the petitioners that street improvement work cannot be ordered by the city in such a manner, that it is not in the power of the board to specify how much shall be paid for such work, but that when work is ordered it is to be the lowest bidder.

For Cement Work

The resolution ordering the placing of cement curbs and sidewalks on certain streets wherein such improvements have not been made although ordered weeks ago, was given second reading, but at the request of the city attorney final action was deferred another week.

Joint Pole Plan

A letter was received from the joint pole commission stating that the railway company requested the modification of the order for the removal of all poles except one on Fourth street and asking that a single line of poles be left on both sides. The Pacific Electric denies that the proposal to use only one line of poles is practicable under existing conditions. The company declares it must maintain a double line of poles on Main street to operate its cars. Mr. Alderman favored granting this request, and Mr. McPhee offered objections, saying if the trustees agreed to do so it meant good-bye to the plan to have all the poles taken down. He doubted the practicability of taking down all the P. E. poles, but he wanted to know what effect such action would have on the proposed cluster light proposition. The poles in question are on Fourth and Main streets. It was made clear by Mr. Alderman that the electric lighting and telephone wires be kept on one line of poles, but the P. E. be permitted to have two lines of poles. The mayor advocated compelling the P. E. to put in iron poles when new poles are put in.

Mr. Grubb doubted if the time is ripe yet for the city to do this but he favored ascertaining where bad poles are now standing, and that the clerk be instructed to request that sound poles be used to replace the bad ones. This was ordered.

Reports of Officials

City Treasurer Connel reported $19,447.37 in the general fund, and $2999.99 in the sewer fund, and the balances in the others. Police Judge Willson reported fines collected in February amounting to $173.

The usual lot of monthly reports were also received.

Little Flurry

President Ey called attention to the payment of $62.50 by the street superintendent for street work that had not been before the board and ordered. Trustee McPhee recalled that this work had been tentatively agreed to several months ago, the city paying the county for doing the work while the county was doing the work. Superintendent English also explained the matter satisfactorily. The work was done on old Seventeenth street near the city limits.

City Marshal's Report

City Marshal Jernigan reported the collection of $172.50 for merchants' licenses in February; $1919.75 for taxes; and made the following arrests: Sixteen for speeding motorcycles; 7 for riding on sidewalks; 7 drunks; 23 for misdemeanors; 2 for grand larceny; 2 for felony; and recovered 8 out of 12 bikes reported lost, and still has 4 wheels on hand.

Water Gate Wanted

The Santa Ana Valley Irrigation Company wants to put a gate in the street at Washington and Flower but the width of the street appears to be in doubt, although the city attorney was disposed to be positive that it is 50 feet. Others contend that it is but 33 feet wide and this width is not sufficient for the accommodations desired. Action is withheld awaiting word from City Engineer Finley.

Two Tax Payments

Taxpayers have inquired if it could not be arranged to have two tax payments each year instead of but one. Mr. Hervey broached the subject to the mayor and Mr. Alderman, and the latter favored such an arrangement if it can be done legally. The city attorney promised to look up the law.

Water Backs Up

Trustee Alderman said complaint has been made as to the condition of the culvert at the foot of Birch street near Fairview, which results in the water backing up and making bad conditions.

Paid Taxes Wrong

Trustee Grubb reported a case of a taxpayer paying taxes on the wrong property and his own property was sold for non-payment. He paid on the property described in his tax assessment, so that the error was not his fault. During the discussion Mr. Grubb frankly admitted that he was the man in the case and a Mr. Davies had paid taxes on some property while he supposed he was paying it on property Mr. Grubb purchased from him.

Quizzing City Attorney

There followed a brief session of interrogations addressed to the city attorney on street improvement and other work, from which the Colonel came out safely.

McPhee said there had been many complaints over some street and lot conditions since the recent rains. As to the city's authority in such cases, the city attorney declared that the city health officer has authority to order cleaning up wherever he deems it necessary.

Trustee McPhee declared rubbish has been accumulated in some sections since Santa Ana was laid out. He insisted that some protection should be given to the general health of the city.

"Clean up" urged.

Mayor Ey urged that the health officer, chief of the fire department and street superintendent be directed to attend to this cleaning up scheme. It was shown that the health officer is busy in this direction and that there are sufficient ordinances to enforce his orders.

No Restrictions

"How many head of cows or other cattle can a man keep on his lot in this city?" asked Mr. Grubb. "As many as they want," said the city attorney. The number or district has never been limited.

Mr. McPhee wanted it distinctly understood that he wasn't after the poor man's cow or other domestic animals, but he insisted that there should be a decent sense of cleanliness maintained. He cited one case of three persons ill from typhoid fever due, he said, directly to unsanitary conditions on the premises.

A motion was passed at the suggestion of Mr. Alderman that the health officer rigidly enforce the laws covering such cases.

Some Legal Advice

As to pure dairy products Attorney Heathman advised the trustees that there is a state law which empowers the district attorney to enforce its provisions. He held that no ordinance the city might enact could be operative without being in conflict with this state law.

As to the appointment of a sealer of weights and measures, he said the state has power to attend to such matters and that the city has no power. Concerning weeds on city lots, he said that his theory is that a law passed a few years ago merely takes a lien on a man's lot and that it means suits in the superior court. The expense of foreclosure suits he said is enormous, but he proposes to draw up a bill for the legislature to enact.

Bad Milk Comes

A way said that Los Angeles finds a group to prohibit unsanitary dairies from shipping impure milk into that city, and considerable of it is shipped to Santa Ana. He wanted to know if this city could not do something to protect the people.

The city attorney: "We might try," but if the dairymen refused to permit such an inspection he couldn't see where the city would get off. Mr. Grubb pointed out that the city could refuse to permit the product of such dairies being shipped here. The city attorney declared the city can do nothing, but that any citizen can complain to the district attorney.

Mr. McPhee said that if complaint made to state inspectors they will come here immediately. The Los Angeles inspectors are deputized by the state. Nothing further was done in the matter.

Reckless Autoists

President Ey called attention to the death of W. R. Edwards from injuries received last Saturday by being run over by an auto, and saying that another citizen had almost been run down at the same corner last night. He advised more stringent rules and regulations to govern the operation of such cars in this city. He said it is a serious matter and demands attention.

Mr. McPhee agreed that many autoists are reckless, but he differed from Mr. Ey's statement that the Edwards accident was not due to recklessness on the part of the driver. The other case, he said, was of a parallel. Mr. Grubb said there was a good deal to be said on both sides of this subject. He switched the discussion to the announcement that gravel hauling teams are spoiling the streets and destroying the paving by sprinkling gravel all over. The police were directed to stop this.

The Cause of Rheumatism

Stomach trouble, lazy liver and damaged kidneys are the cause of rheumatism. Get your stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels in healthy condition by taking Electric Bitters, and you will not be troubled with the pains of rheumatism. Charles B. Allen, a respected principal of Sylvania, Ga., who suffered indescribable torture from rheumatism, liver and stomach trouble and diseased kidneys, writes: "All remedies failed until I used Electric Bitters, but four bottles of this wonderful remedy cured me completely. Maybe your rheumatic pains come from a lazy stomach, liver and kidney troubles. Electric Bitters will give you prompt relief. 50c and $1.00. Recommended by all druggists. Advertisement."
